United Swallow Club Meet 2019 at National Young Bird Show

by Steve Ripper

The annual October rush brought together a nice group of Swallow breeders from the mid-West and the Eastern districts. This show is a popular one for us as it normally brings a good representation of the young birds bred for the year by some very good breeders.

Being a somewhat early show to prepare for our breeders need to get some of the earlier bred birds through the molt, vaccinated and show trained to be ready for the competition.

You may say that there is a slight advantage for the non-muffed or clean leg swallows since muffs don't have to be pulled 6-8 weeks before the show. But there is always good competition among the muffed Swallow breeders which goes back many years. It is a nice annual rivalry like a 'tug of war' by members who have been battling for the Champion positions year after year.

With a nice selection of colorful awards for Best Junior, Silesian, Fairy, FullHead and Thuringer Swallows created by Gary Romig. The Champion and Reserve Champion awards are always especially nice.

Our average entry number was down a little this year as several members had last minute family commitments which prevented them from their normal entries. Nonetheless we had a good selection of Swallows for judge Dave Averbeck of St. Louis to study in identifying the best birds for awards.

Speaking of awards I think we should add an award for the 'Most Improved Breeder' for this show as it is a young bird show where we want to show our breeding accomplishments to our fellow members and other pigeon breeders who appreciate the Swallow. If we had this award this year I would have voted for Jim Grober of Wisconsin.

Jim joined the USC just a few years ago after retiring from breeding Champion bantams. He has started with Silesians in Blue black bar and Silesians in Black white bar marking. In the last three years I have seen him in Des Moines and several times at the NYBS and each time his birds show nice improvement in marking, muff and show prep. I told him this year his birds are getting too improved!

This year also we had Colby Starr showing as a Junior. And, yes he is the grandson our Merle Starr, who loved and bred Swallows for many years.

Colby won the Best Junior Award with a very nicely bred blue barless Fullhead cap Swallow a Thuringer breed. He is continuing the Starr Tradition of breeding color pigeons. His Dad, Tim, is noted in our USC as an experienced breeder of Tiger Swallows (Bohemian). And, most likely the only specialist of this variety in the country.

Another new member from NC, Lance Newman showed a nice blue white bar Fairy and we are looking forward to seeing him in the future with more blue white bars.

Our show in Louisville usually starts on Saturday morning with the judging beginning at 9am. Although I know for me and others the show begins months before at home with pairing the breeders for the season.

Arriving at the Show hall is always fun! Bumping into all your friends of other breeds you have made over the years, catching up on their pigeon experiences and quickly eyeing the competition as you place your birds in their show cages. Then as your club buddies show up the "Trash Talk" and kidding begin. "Hey that one looks pretty good it must be out of the bird I gave you last year". Or, you must have raised that one in a real low nest box, because it's head is so flat on top. After a few rounds of this friendly chiding you settle in to checking your birds for the final trim or touch up because the next morning you don't have much time before the Judging begins.

This year our largest class was in the Blue white bar Fairy Swallow which is a shell crested variety with broad rosettes and nice white bars edged in a thin black line. Next were the Silesians in Black white bar, Blue black bar and several very nice Black barless. Eric Kooker showed some good Thuringer Fullhead Swallows in Blue black bar and barless with several good entries in Blue white bar Fairies as well.

Brad and Rachael Stuckey generally show some Silesians and Thuringer Swallows but this year their birds just didn't finish in time.

Perry Mueller had to pull his entry as he was one of those who had a Family commitment that couldn't be missed. Perry has for many years set the bar pretty high for those competing in several classes like Saxon Fullheads, Silesians and Fairies. When you are up against Perry's birds your competing with the some of the best.

And, I saved our newly elected USC President for last, he's a big guy and he can handle it. Chris Auer has been breeding Black Saxon Fullheads in white bar which is a beautiful pigeon when all things come together. He is bringing his stud up to Show quality a little more each year.

You have to realize that some of our Swallow varieties are quite rare even in their homeland and they are a challenge to Show competitively. But, this is why we love Swallows because of their unique markings and beautiful colors, with fancy muffed feet and full rosettes accenting a round full crest. Chris also jumped in the blue white bar Fairy competition just because he liked the fact that they are the 'Hot' breed so to speak and he enjoys the competition.

I myself showed Blue bar, Black barless Silesians and the popular blue white bar Fairies.

This Show for me is one of the very best of the year because of the members, the competition, seeing other pigeon friends from across the country, picking up supplies and just enjoying what we call Pigeoneering !!!!

United Swallow Club 50th Anniversary Reflecting and Anticipating

By Mike and Cathy Swanson

Just think in 1969 gasoline was $.35 a gallon, the average car cost $3,270.00 and the average house was $15,000.00. The Beatles had their last public performance. The Rolling Stones gave a free concert at the Altamont Speedway in California. However, the Hells Angels motorcycle gang were the bouncers for the concert. Top movies included Easy Rider and Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid.

We can't overlook the introduction of the Pontiac Trans Am, Woodstock and of course the historic lunar landing and the first steps on the moon by Neil Armstrong and Buzz Aldrin.

The Vietnam War was still raging and World leaders included Indira Ghandi, Charles DeGaulle and Leonid Brzhnev. Richard Nixon was recently elected as President.

The first ATM machine was created along with the 747 jumbo jet. Certainly, 1969 was a year of events with a lasting impact. The establishment of the United Swallow began in 1969 and it too has had an enduring impact.

Today, club members receive four quarterly bulletins per year. Our bulletins are certainly top quality thanks to renowned artist, Gary Romig, our bulletin editor. Additionally, Gary has created a website for our club. This website is a wealth of information in which past bulletins, our standard and our club's Constitution and By-Laws can be accessed. The United Swallow Club is unique in that it includes the U.S. and Canada.

Still another feature of our club has been the continuing efforts through the decades to refine and clarify our standard. Gary's illustrations are intended to amplify and clarify the text of the standard. The refinement of the standard has created a conversation that now transcends five decades. Again, a clear standard provides members with the elements to focus on in their breeding programs. Definitely, an increased consciousness on what to consider, provides clarity on what to persist in their breeding program.

many, many years ago; 1976

Many members, over the last fifty years, have improved and contributed to refining our Swallow standard numerous times. Our continuing conversation centered on Swallows has resulted in narrowing our focus and widening our perspectives, all with the intention of improving our breed.

Our club has a unique judging system that is a variation of a European Rating System. This rating system compares the bird to our Standard as opposed to sorting and comparing the birds to one another. Ratings include E-excellent, HS-highly superior, S superior, G - Good, and I - inferior. Our rating system provides important feedback to breeders in determining where next with their breeding program. As a result, at our shows, the judging routine becomes important feedback tied to the standard as opposed to just an opinion. The gallery of breeders, both experienced and novice, get the opportunity to consider and learn as a result of this judging routine.

Judging comments are transcribed onto coop cards. These comments provide a resource to breeders once they are home or if they are not in attendance. They can then use this feedback to consider for their upcoming breeding season.

The annual and district shows provide more opportunities for the refining and clarifying conversation to continue. Additionally, it provides club members direction on ways in which to improve their birds.

Another feature at our shows is the awarding of patches for receiving an E-rating. This collaborative endeavor of members, Gary Romig and Gloria Weisgram, resulted in patches with the purpose of honoring birds receiving this designation. Additionally, unique and high quality awards created by Gary Romig are awarded for Champion, Reserve Champion, Best Young along with the various varieties

Our club is divided into four districts, each with a director. Our club promotes our breed through district shows and our annual meets. Our annual meet location is determined by the club membership. Often our annual meets coincide with the NPA National and over the years they have been in a variety of locations spanning the country. Changing the venue for our annual shows provides still more opportunities to promote our breed and grow our membership.

Over the years the United Swallow Club has worked hard to implement a certified judging program with a dual purpose: increasing our membership's understanding of the Swallow standard while ensuring the judging process elevates everyone's perspective of the birds being shown.

Bill Griebel is currently the chairman of the certified judging program. Becoming a certified judge requires an apprenticeship period: an opportunity to observe, learn and clarify the nuances of our standard. Submitting an application, documentation of apprenticeship judging and history as a breeder are part of the requirements. Certified judges are then approved by a vote of the current certified judges and then become certified to judge our annual shows. The certified judging program is an indicator of our club's commitment to structures and processes. Growing the capacities of our members increases the strength of our organization.

Through our fifty years in existence definitely common threads exist. As one reviews our fifty years of bulletins these common themes stand out. Over and over again commitment to the standard is evident in the communications throughout our club's members and it transcends time. Still another strong theme is our club's commitment to processes and structures that have created efficiency in how we work as a club. Definitely, through the decades members have contributed large amounts of time and thought toward refining our Constitution and By-Laws. As a result, our club has sustained its purpose: further refinement of the breed we love, Swallows in all types, colors and varieties. Our common purpose and processes have strengthened our organization. Our club continues to thrive.

Our club has a very special and unique dimension in its connection to breeders throughout the world. As you review our membership list it quickly reveals guest members from everywhere! Throughout our club's history we've invited foreign judges to evaluate our birds at our annual meets. Our club's commitment to this opportunity has required our membership's commitment toward underwriting this expense. Two unique outcomes, as result of foreign judges, has been a widening perspective of our breed and our common purposes for our hobby.

Our club's annual meet auctions have paved a pathway for foreign judges. Our auctions generate the money for these opportunities. Members donate high quality birds, art, books and a variety of pigeon memorabilia. The auction creates the opportunity for new breeders to acquire quality birds while contributing to our club treasury. Definitely, a win: win for everyone. Our current treasury balance is still another indicator of the health of our club and the commitment of our members.

Over time and through the decades as one reviews our history, through the bulletins, it is very clear although we have experienced growing pains, tensions about structures and processes and definitely opposing perspectives about our standard; we've found a way to overcome our challenges and sustain our organization. Definitely, finding common ground is still another attribute of our members through fifty years. Although many of our members no longer remain, their impact on our organization and breed still remains. Our common commitment to Swallows through our work as an organization for fifty years has resulted in a thriving organization and the sustainability of our breed!

Looking ahead many exciting things are taking place. Our club's 50th Anniversary Annual Show will be held in conjunction with the NPA National in Amarillo. Our members have voted to have Bill Griebel serve as the judge. There will be a 50th Anniversary patch available to recognize this special milestone as an organization. President-Elect Chris Auer is organizing the auction. Should you have questions or donations contact him at 314-412-0308.

In other relevant news the new breeding season is approaching quickly so reach out to our USC Club Secretary Elliot Yeske to order your NPA bands. For further details refer to the USC club website or refer to our ads in the Purebred Pigeon or the NPA Quarterly. Along with our website, our new USC Facebook page will provide you with still another forum for expanding your perspective and knowledge of Swallows. For more information contact Brad Stuckey at 318-792-8693.

Definitely, the Amarillo National will provide a special opportunity to celebrate our club and our breed, plan to join us!
